

Bare Heart

Roger Montgomery

So you want to run and hide
Play games with the well to do
Just remember in your pride
Jesus bared His heart for you.

Ashamed for Him to see you cry
You want to play peek-a-boo
Just remember while you run and hide
Jesus bared His heart for you.

You are so big and rough
No one knows what you're going through
While you show that you're tough
Just remember, Jesus bared His heart for you.

Where can you go and try to hide
The whole world is open to His view
Whether you go to heaven or to hell
Jesus bared His heart for you.

He has taken all your pain
Even though you never knew
He hung on the cross in shame
And bared His heart for you.

Some people cry and some people laugh
To be open to each other, there are few
His heart was pierced like a knife
Jesus bared His heart for you.

He is the lowly Nazarene
Easy to approach and loving too
You can tell Him everything you want
He bared His heart for you.

No one is ever turned away
If you need help, that's nothing new
The whole world needs to know
Jesus bared His heart for you.

Nothing on earth goes unnoticed
One day all secrets will be brought into view
The end of this life is upon us
And Jesus bared His heart for you.

Today you have a chance to let go
Learn what is known by precious few
Just thought you might like to know
Jesus bared His heart for you.
